

Senators Want "Bob" Expelled From G.O.P.

Political Enemies Want Badger Senator Shorn of All Power on Committees

MOSES DISCOURAGES MOVE

Warns Committee on Committees Not to Overstep Powers Conferred Upon It

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Expulsion of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin, from the Republican party, is being sought by his political and personal enemies.

They want the "stormy petrel" of the senate officially thrown out of the G. O. P. majority and figuratively, if not literally set out in the middle of the senate aisle as a "man without a party."

At a recent meeting of the Republican committee on committees of the senate, a motion was made that La Follette be expelled from the party. This was to be done by dropping him from all the senate committees of which he is now a member and excluding him from the Republican conference, that is, the secret meetings of all senate Republicans to determine party policies on legislation.

The attempt fell through for the time being, however, when Senator Moses, New Hampshire, raised the point that the committee on committees, though it can control a senator's committee assignments, cannot be the judge of his qualifications as a member of the party.

Madalynne To Tell Facts About Murder

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I'll tell the truth about the whole affair."

This statement, made to the United Press exclusively by Madalynne Obenchain, Tuesday, followed the disagreement of a jury trying Arthur Courtney Burch for murder of John Belton Kennedy.

Madalynne's trial is set for Feb. 5. "The facts about the murder have never come out," she said. "I'll tell the truth about the whole affair and I shall be acquitted on the first bail."

Burch Tuesday paid his respects to the two women jurors who for 72 hours stood firm against a majority vote to convict him and finally succeeded late Monday in having the jury discharged.

"Two women who never weakened! For seventy-two hours they stood out against the pack. It's a great and terrible feeling to know your fate is held in the soft palm of a woman," Burch said.

"Mention women jurors when you're talking about the superinstitutions of America. They're great."

"They say a woman is swayed by emotional appeal. If this is so, do you think these two could have held out against ten, all arguing and using every sort of appeal?"

"Thank God for a reasoning woman! Thank God for a woman juror!"

Farwell Hated Marriage; Will Plead Insanity

Alleged "Haystack" Murderer Couldn't Stand to See Sister Marry Farhand

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—Hatred of the institution of matrimony and the regarding of marriage as only an escape from starvation by the men of two generations of Farwells was revealed Tuesday as an underlying motive in the slaying of Philip Houston by his former employer, Hartwell Farwell, Jan. 10.

Rattling of family skeletons told a story of the attempt of James Farwell, father of the confessed murderer who will plead insanity when arraigned Tuesday, to prevent his daughters from marrying, and the handing down of the heritage of celibacy to his bachelor son.

"I've got enough money to support my daughters; they don't need to marry," the father, who died a decade ago, repeated continually.

One daughter married and was ostracized by her family. One son married and moved away. There remained Hartwell and Alice. Alice's love affairs had been squelched short of marriage by her father.

Then the hired hand, Philip Houston, appeared. He worked on the farm, and after several years sued for and recovered $500 in back pay, then courted Alice.

FARWELL INFURIATED
When the affair approached marriage, Farwell, infuriated at the thought of his sister marrying a comparatively poor man, whom she proposed to live on a chicken farm near Windsor, drove Houston from the house.

Houston told friends a week ago Tuesday he was going back to "see his girl." His body was found three days later in a burning haystack 30 miles away.

Alice has told conflicting stories throughout the case. She has promised authorities, however, that she will tell all she knows at her brother's trial.

RAIL HEADS BLAME U. S. FOR SLUMP

Milwaukee—A reduction in freight rates is not the only thing that is sidetracking the return of prosperity, W. H. Finley, president of the North-western road, and H. F. Byram, head of the Milwaukee road, declared in addresses here Monday night.

They spoke before 400 traffic managers at the annual banquet of the Milwaukee traffic club.

Both Finley and Byram scored governmental interference with the railroads and urged that the roads be given an opportunity to liquidate and return to normal basis, just as other industries have done.

FARMER WILL BE APPOINTED TO BANK BOARD

Harding Assures Agricultural Bloc Demands for Representative Are Heeded

BOARD OPPRESSED FARMER

War Finance Corporation, Not Federal Reserve Board, Saved Situation

By DAVID LAYRENCE
(Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—President Harding has assured the agricultural bloc that he intends to appoint a farmer to the federal reserve board. Senator Kellogg of Minnesota and Kenyon of Iowa, who discussed with the president the proposals pending in congress whereby the chief executive would be required to appoint a farmer gave the impression as they left the White house that they would persuade their colleagues in the senate to abandon the project.

The basis of the compromise, if indeed the concession of the White house to the agricultural bloc, can be described, is simply that the executive will do that the agricultural bloc wants but the latter will, on its part give up the idea of actually specifying by statute what the president shall do in the way of future appointments.

BOARD WAS SEVERE
On the surface this has seemed to be a compromise between a powerful group in congress, which appeared desirous of usurping the domain of the executive but the meaning of the movement lies far deeper than that and is significant of one tendency of reconstruction which affects not merely the farmers of the west but the bankers and manufacturers of the east.

In the agricultural bloc, which exists to the very fundamentals which are involved in the present controversy. The farmers feel—and their attitude is completely reflected in the aggressive position taken by senators from agricultural states—that the federal reserve board was unduly severe on the farmer during the deflation period which began nearly two years ago.

The banks of the nation were advised not to loan money on declining markets. The farmer was caught in the middle of a squeeze and advice by the federal reserve system. On its part, the federal reserve board justified what was done, claiming that deflation is painful at best and that the farmer had to take his medicine along with the rest. But the farmer now points out that the process went too far and that the federal reserve board didn't help him in time of stress. The overwhelming demand from the rural districts for the revival of the war finance corporation which Secretary Houston opposed under the Wilson administration and which was reluctantly accepted by the Harding administration, has worked out so well that the farmers are pointing to it as the best evidence of their ill-treatment.

NEED FARMER'S VIEW
Why should the war finance corporation have been necessary, say the agricultural groups, if the federal reserve board comprehended the needs of farmer finance? The fact is the war finance corporation has done some wonderful things, for which the farmers in those sections of the country which have been helped will be everlastingly grateful—and the praises of Eugene Meyer, Jr., head of the finance corporation, are loudly sung in the north, east, south and west, wherever timely financial aid has been extended through the finance corporation.

The agricultural bloc argues that when the crisis came nobody on the federal reserve board seemed to realize what a terrible blow was being handed the farmer. If there had been a farmer on the board, experienced in agricultural ways this might not have happened. Men on the board had dealt with the farmers through their banking experience, but the agricultural bloc contends that the farmer viewpoint should have been obtained from the other side of the loan counter.

NAMES BURKE AS MASTER MIND IN BOOTLEGGER RING

Joseph Custer Tells Court Damaging Facts—Burke Sole Defendant Now

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Joseph Custer, star witness of the state, named Walter Burke, Kenosha lawyer, as one of the master minds in the bootlegging conspiracy, exposure of which was followed by the conviction of Bert Herzog, former federal prohibition chief, when he took the stand here Monday.

Burke is the sole defendant in the case, as the codefendants, Harry Feuer, Charles Grossmuth, Joe Budar and Custer, pleaded guilty Monday to charges brought against them in connection with the alleged bootlegging syndicate.

STOP RUM GRAFT BY NEW PERMIT PLAN

Revision of Warehouse Arrangement Will Make One Person Responsible

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—A sweeping reorganization of all permit bureaus in federal prohibition enforcement offices throughout the country will be made shortly, it was learned here Tuesday. This plan was decided upon by enforcement chiefs following the indictment of several high officials of prohibition offices in New York for issuing "forced" permits and general charges that the present system was an encouragement to "graft."

"We believe this plan will stop the last link in the dyke of thorough enforcement," a high official told the United Press Tuesday.

"Whisky has been pouring from warehouses through illicit channels. This was due to the issuance of bogus and forged permits allowing withdrawals from bonded warehouses. With this plan in effect the supply of liquor will be cut in half."

The reorganization plan calls for a new stamp system. By the scheme one man in each office can be held responsible for all permits issued.

GIRL IDENTIFIES BODY AS FATHER'S

Milwaukee Police Seek Possible Slayers of Man Found Dying on Road

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—The body of the man who was struck by an automobile, and murdered, and left dying in the road at St. Francis, a suburb of Milwaukee, Sunday, was identified late Monday as that of George Piesiek, by his daughter Anna, who kept house for her father.

The daughter told of her father having gone to visit friends Sunday night and of having waited up for him until quite late. When he did not return, she telephoned the Pfister and Vogel Leater company where he was employed and found he was not at work. Hearing of the finding of an unidentified man, she went to the morgue and identified the body.

Police are working on two theories, that the man was murdered or that he was struck by a speeding automobile and left dying by the roadside.

Followed Grid Team; Broke, Lands in Jail

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Broke and without a job, Thompson, former Notre Dame student, was arrested here Monday night, charged with having stolen an automobile.

Thompson was arrested at a roadhouse, after the owners of the stolen car had reported the theft to the police. Thompson, at the police station, told a hard luck story which started shortly before the Marquette-Notre Dame football game at Milwaukee.

"I broke with dad because I went to Milwaukee to see the football game," Thompson is alleged to have said. "He objected because I followed the team. He said if I wouldn't go to school on his money, I could go out and make good on my own hook."

Thompson said he was trying to locate friends he had met at the game here. He wanted to visit the roadhouses. There was only one way to get there, that was, by automobile. "So I got me one," Thompson is alleged to have said.

Thompson is said to be the son of a prominent South Bend department store man.

MOVIES NEED HAYS TO STOP HEAVY LOSSES

Producers Are Said to Lose $15,000,000 a Year Through Small Theaters

By Hugh Baillie
New York—This is the inside story of why the moving picture magnates can afford to pay Will H. Hays $150,000 a year.

All the altruistic and uplift purposes attributed to the move may be properly endorsed but the true story is the extremely practical plan of an extremely practical set of big business men behind one of the biggest of America's industries.

The masters of the moving picture business definitely expect that Will H. Hays by harmonizing the industries' business policy will save for them and therefore in effect earn for them ten times his salary.

That is why they were able to induce Hays to give up his position as postmaster general in the cabinet of President Harding to become the "Landis of the movies."

The explanation is in the fact that the great trouble with the moving picture business at present is duplication in sales. There are perhaps 500 big, financially responsible moving picture theatres in the country, but there are about 15,000 small theatres which constitute the bulk of the business. These small theatres, in order to get the big features from various companies contract annually for far more pictures than they can use. They pay for only the pictures that they do use and the big producers are helpless. They cannot collect for the pictures not used, in many cases, without actually closing up the small theatre, which is the last thing they desire to do.

The loss in 1921 on unshown pictures ran from 15 to 30 per cent of the entire contracted business of most of the largest concerns. With the annual business running over one hundred millions this would mean a loss of over fifteen million dollars and a saving of a very small percentage, in fact, one per cent, would pay the salary of the former postmaster general.

FRANCE GIVES APPROVAL TO GENOA CONFAB

Poincare Cabinet Wants Russian Guarantees Taken Up as First Issue

By United Press Leased Wire
Paris—French foreign policy under Premier Poincare, ended endorsement of the Genoa economic conference, according to semi-official advices from the Quai d'Orsay Tuesday.

Poincare, it was authoritatively reported, will recommend the conference to the chamber of deputies when he announces the policies of the new government on Thursday and will propose to go to Geneva himself.

Premier Poincare has conceded a step further in his attitude towards the Russians, it was believed. Instead of insisting upon a guarantee from the soviet government as a preliminary step to the Genoa conference, the new premier, it is understood, will be satisfied if Russian guarantees are taken up as one of the first moves of the parley itself.

The British view does not yet go this far. Lloyd George intended the Russians should be admitted to determine what guarantees they would give for their participation in the rehabilitation of Europe.

Most Definite and Sweeping Promise Known to World Soon to Be Made Public

OUTDOES DOCTRINE OF HAY

Conference Expects to Consider Japan's 21 Demands, Delegate Declares

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—The powers in the Washington conference Tuesday had pledged themselves to the "open door" in China.

It was learned by the United Press Tuesday that the delegates of the nine powers in the secret session of the Far Eastern committee Monday night approved a resolution of declaration of the American government solemnly reaffirming the "open door" policy in China.

This declaration is understood to be the most sweeping and definite promise ever given by the nations of the world to observe the policy of the open door. Definite announcement that the resolution is broader than the Hay open door declaration, that it is intended to abolish "spheres of influence" in China and that it broadens already made, came from a Chinese delegate. At the same time, he and an American delegate announced that Japan's 21 demands will be considered at the conference.

NOT PUBLIC YET
While all the powers in the Far Eastern committee are said to have given their assent to the American resolution of declaration, neither this nor the fact that the definite open door formula has been proposed to the committee by Secretary of State Hughes, has made public.

It was explained that there were yet some minor questions in connection with the resolution that had to be settled when the time came for adjournment. The resolution will be adopted at the resolution at its meeting late Tuesday, it is believed, and the declaration will then be made public.

In presenting the American open door formula to the committee, Secretary Hughes outlined the stand of the United States. Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, is understood to have declared that Great Britain seeks no special rights in China.

"Fatty" Deplores Loss Of Kids' Love

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco—"It's not prison I'm afraid of. It's not the loss of fame or fortune. It is the loss of regard; the loss of affection; the fact that the kids may think I am guilty that hurts me."

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, on trial for a second time charged with taking the life of Virginia Rappe, was speaking.

"I'm innocent," Arbuckle began slowly.

"All I ask is a square deal," he went on—blowing a wonderful ring of blue tobacco smoke which he followed contemplatively with his eyes as it floated away.

"All I want is for the public to withhold its judgment until the jury of twelve men and women has decided whether I am guilty."

Arbuckle has suffered the tortures of hell since I was arrested. The thought that some people might have believed I was guilty of causing the death of that poor girl was torment.

"Bound by silence in the past I had to face the accusation night and day without answer, for the sole reason that all the evidence in the case and the purported statement of witnesses were purposely twisted and turned so as to injure me and my attorneys were certain that the same would happen to anything I might say."

"All I ask in repayment of the wrong done me is that the world which once loved me now withhold its judgment a little while and give me a chance to prove before another jury that I am innocent."

Taking of testimony will begin Tuesday afternoon.

A jury composed of eleven men and one woman, with one woman and one man as alternate jurors, was completed late Monday.

Tuesday the jury was allowed the morning hours to settle personal affairs preparatory to being locked up during taking of testimony.

ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT DUE FOR STRUGGLE

Eastern Interests Will Ask Congress to Oppose Lakes to Ocean Route

Washington—Battleships were drawn Tuesday in congress on the proposed canalization of the St. Lawrence river by the United States and Canada, for the purpose of converting great lakes cities into ocean ports. Powerful opposition has developed from New York interests who fear the loss of a large amount of the shipping business.

The report of the international joint commission, recommending the project, is now before congress, along with a message from President Harding. The cost of the project was estimated at $252,000,000. Construction of the Welland canal would require an additional $60,000,000 the commission stated. Under the plan of the joint commission, this country and Canada would enter into a treaty for the deepening of the St. Lawrence and the construction of the Welland canal, both countries floating bonds to carry on the work.

Eastern interests in congress are expected to center their fight on article 10 of the commission's recommendations which suggest that the cost of the project be apportioned on the basis of the benefits received. This, the project's opponents hold, means that the United States must defray the bulk of the expense of construction.

Middlewestern congressmen are unanimously in favor of the project and claim the support of western colleagues. They hold the canalization project will be of tremendous advantage to farmers of the west and mid-west by affording them direct access to the ocean.

REVIVE BUSINESS WITHIN TWO YEARS

Warren, Ohio—A great business revival which will develop through increasing business during the next year or two rather than a full production in the near future, was predicted in an exclusive interview here Tuesday by Jonathan Warner, president of the Trumbull Steel company.

"There is now being laid a firm foundation for a great business revival because we are getting back to the fundamentals which were forgotten during the last few years; economy and thrift always precede a business revival," said Warner.

Warner declared that the demand for steel products is gradually increasing every place and that the output of the mills is consequently becoming more and more each month.

CAN'T COOK HOOTCH WITH GAS NOW; DRYS ARE WISE TO BILLS

St. Paul—Watching the gas bills to detect homebrewers has been one of the duties of prohibition agents.

After gas bills recently secured in the capture of a moonshiner and confiscation of a 10-gallon still.

Agents are also watching the plumbing shops. Purchasers of moonshining equipment are questioned. In order to keep in touch with the plumbers, prohibition violators are asked: "Who's your tinsmith?"

SPURNED MAN WOUNDS GIRL; ENDS OWN LIFE

Bakery Shop at Berlin, Wis. Is Scene of Love Affair's Tragic End

By United Press Leased Wire
Berlin, Wis.—Despondent because his affections for the girl he loved had been spurned, Leo Vick, Spring Lake, shot and seriously wounded Emma Baker, 22, here Monday night and then ended his own life.

Monday afternoon, Vick arrived here and went to Ludwig's bakery where Miss Baker was employed, and asked to speak to her. The girl, being busy, told him to return in the evening.

He immediately took the train out of Berlin and did not return until late in the afternoon. It is thought he went as far as Ripon and brooded over the affair, caused him to return and commit the deed.

Arriving here, he went to the bakery where Miss Baker was employed and without a word, drew a revolver and started firing at the girl. The first shot took effect, striking Miss Baker just above the right of the mouth on the left side. Two other shots went wild. After the girl had fallen, seriously wounded, Vick sat down on a settle, turned the gun on himself, fired and was dead almost instantly.

FRIEDMAN, HERE TONIGHT, NOTED AS A COMPOSER

Polish Pianist Finds Time to Write Music in Spite of Many Concerts

Ignaz Friedman, world famed pianist who will appear at Lawrence Memorial chapel at 8:30 Tuesday evening in the Community Lecture and Artist series is also a noted composer. Although Mr. Friedman has been putting in strenuous concert work in his tours throughout Europe and South America he has time to do considerable in the way of composition.

One contribution which Mr. Friedman has made to musical literature is a quintet for piano and strings in C minor in two movements. The composer has been playing this selection in some of his eastern concerts. He has also written many selections for two pianos and many strophes for the piano which have a facile technical limitation. He is gifted with much melodic inspiration and a happy feeling for harmonies that are rich and varied without being bizarre.

Friedman's list of composition also include a concerto for piano with orchestration string quartets, many compositions for the piano alone and several songs. He will include in his program, no doubt some of his compositions which are still in manuscript form. He is being likened to his compatriot Chopin and he gives promises of leaving some additions to the world's musical scores which will rival that composer.

The concert grand piano which Friedman will use in his concert here, arrived this morning by express.

MARY ANDERSON LIKES APPLETON

Motion Picture Actress Delighted

Mary Anderson liked Appleton; she said so very emphatically when being driven about the city Monday afternoon. Contrary to the stories which are prevalent about the temperament of moving picture artists, Miss Anderson proved herself a very interesting and enjoyable companion to those who accompanied her on the ride.

After two busy days of appearing at the Bijou theatre under the management of the Beglinger company, she left for Marinette Tuesday morning on the 8:35 train. Miss Lucille Ackerman of the Press Gazette of Green Bay and Mrs. John Martin of Green Bay were Miss Anderson's guests at dinner at the Sherman house Monday evening. They became fond of the little actress during her stay in Green Bay recently. It is probable she will return to Kaukauna where she will appear on Sunday.

Subjects discussed will be: New standards and practices for 1922 construction; inspection in 1922; producing gravel for concrete roads from local pits; costs on some day labor construction and cost keeping; suggestions for simplifying construction operations and co-operative highway work.

Officers of the state highway commission will participate in Thursday's program which has been set aside as "Administration day." State Engineer Hirst will speak on "The State of the Nation."

CANNON WILL SPEAK

Friday, the last day of the session, will be given over to the county highway commissioners. It is their program will be under the direction of the county highway commissioners' association. It will touch upon all general problems confronting the county highway commissioner.

Evening sessions will be held each night. Pictures of highway construction work will be shown Monday evening. Illustrated lectures on various topics will be given Tuesday evening. "Resolved that for an expected traffic of less than 800 vehicles a day for the summer's average, a gravel road should be built rather than a concrete road," will be the subject of a debate Wednesday evening. The debate will be interspersed with various other entertainment.

F. A. Cannon will act as toastmaster at the eleventh annual road school dinner which will be held at 6 o'clock Friday evening. This will be a social affair and business discussions will be barred.

WOODROW WILSON FOUNDATION FUND IS STARTED HERE

Outagamie County Expected to Raise $600 in Nationwide Movement

The Woodrow Wilson foundation movement in Outagamie county was organized at a dinner in the French room of the Sherman house Monday noon by the election of Howard Thomas, secretary, and P. H. Ryan, treasurer. The meeting was called by Stephen D. Baillet, who announced he had accepted the call as county chairman.

Outagamie county's allotment of the fund is $600 which it was decided to make a free will offering. In the event the sum required falls short of the amount secured other steps will then be taken to make up the deficiency. With the splendid showing made at the free will offering at Christmas time it was the general sentiment the amount would be over subscribed.

President Samuel Plantz was to have presided at the meeting, but owing to slight illness upon his return from Chicago his place was filled by Dr. H. E. Peabody, who was introduced to the 30 persons present by County Chairman Baillet.

Dr. Peabody outlined the object of the fund and said that personally he had no doubt that history would place Woodrow Wilson among the few immortals of American statesmen and would also place him among the immortals in the world's history because it had been given to him to found the league of nations.

Dr. R. C. Mullens, who was introduced as the original Wilson man, said there never was a moment when he wavered personally in his appreciation of the former president and his policies and stated he was in hearty accord with the movement.

John J. Sherman said he was also sympathetic with the movement. Mrs. D. O. Kinsman stated if she was not mistaken there was a group of women who suggested the fund. Postmaster Gustav Keller said he was a firm believer in the ideals and in the principles which Woodrow Wilson advocated.

County Chairman Baillet read a letter from Hugh G. Corbett in which the writer said he was glad to accept the invitation to attend the Woodrow Wilson foundation luncheon, and while he honored and respected the former president, there was a greater reason, the opportunity to meet the first meeting of its kind ever held in Appleton.

"Heretofore our efforts have been, 'to help the down and out, the fellow who has been unable to keep up with the main army of humanity. If we make a mark at our selfless organizations, we will see that they are organized to assist the poor, not one to help the thinker, the discoverer, the genius.'"

The Wilson foundation, it was explained, is a fund of $1,000,000 the income from which, amounting to approximately $50,000 a year, is to be given to individuals or groups of individuals who are outstanding leaders in promoting American ideals. Not one cent of the money will go to the former president. The fund will be distributed by a nonsectarian and nonpolitical committee which will be known as the Woodrow Wilson Foundation board of trustees.

Poor Roads Kept Down Attendance At Sale

Low Prices at 1922 Sale Insures Larger Attendance Next Year

"If the roads had been in good condition last week, Armory G would have been far too small to hold the crowds which would have attended the Duroc-Jersey sale." This was the statement Monday from O. P. Cuff, director of the Outagamie Duroc-Jersey breeders' association, who assisted in arranging the sale.

"Considering the number in attendance, the armory served as well as a good livestock sales pavilion would have been. But it would have been much too small if snow-blocked roads had not prevented many farmers from attending. As it was the armory served satisfactorily."

"Financially," Mr. Cuff said, "the sale was not as successful as last year. Last year we received an average price of $113 for our hogs but this year we received only $37. I think this will really benefit the association because it will boom future sales we hold. Many prospective buyers were discouraged from attending the sale when they remembered last year's high prices but now they will know that it is possible to buy high grade purebred stock very reasonably and I believe this will help to make future sales a big success. Last year's prices made many farmers feel that purebred Duroc-Jerseys were only for the wealthiest farmers but now they will change their minds."

Mr. Cuff discussed the report that the hogs would have sold at from $15 to $25 apiece more if they had been exhibited in an up-to-date sales pavilion. "I don't know of anything which had a direct effect in keeping bidding down," Mr. Cuff said.

Mr. Cuff said he had such a tendency to think of nothing but the financial terms of the sale. From the start it was announced that two acceptable endorsements would be required on every note. This may have kept some farmers from bidding. As far as sanitation and cleanliness were concerned, the armory was kept in good condition."

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS
If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

REACH AGREEMENT IN BLOOMER CASE

Settlement is Reached Out of Court Just as Trial is to Begin

After the jury had been drawn and all preparations had been made to try the case of William Bloomer against Ben C. Koepke and others in municipal court Monday morning, attorneys for the plaintiff announced that the case had been settled out of court. This was the second time the case had been brought into municipal court.

It is understood that Mr. Koepke and the Appleton Construction company have made satisfactory settlement with Mr. Bloomer for wages due him for highway construction work in 1920. Bloomer started suit when differences occurred in regard to the amount due him. The case first came up for hearing in municipal court several months ago. Because there was no written contract between the two parties the case was difficult of trial and it finally went to the jury on a special verdict of four questions.

The jury's verdict was unsatisfactory to the plaintiff and request was made for a new trial. The request was granted by Judge A. M. Spencer but the defendant then appealed the matter of a new trial to supreme court. In October the supreme court sustained Judge Spencer and agreed that a new trial could be granted.

AN OPPORTUNITY
The efforts to make March 4th and 5th a notable occasion for strengthening and prospering the American Legion is one which should have the active cooperation of all Appleton. This is to be a meeting of post commanders and adjutants and between six and seven hundred men are expected to attend. Although the convention will have no legislative power, it will point the way to effective work in behalf of the Legion. As an added stimulus to the convention, General Pershing, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Denby, together with other prominent military leaders, have been invited to come to Appleton for the meeting, and the probability is that most if not all of these distinguished guests may be here.
The presence of General Pershing, members of the president's cabinet, and Legion leaders would be an event of great public importance to Appleton. Supplementing the convention proper, a public meeting or demonstration of some character could be made the means of bringing thousands of persons to Appleton. The main purpose of giving a new impetus to the American Legion movement would be gained, and Appleton and the surrounding country would draw special inspiration touching public service and our national greatness.
The American Legion is one of the greatest power for good and for genuine, enlightened Americanism. It is a necessary and healthy product of the war, and it deserves the hearty support of all citizens who take their love of country seriously. The Chamber of Commerce, the municipality and the public at large should, and we have no doubt will, take real pleasure in acting with the American Legion to make the March convention a great success and to insure the honor of entertaining the distinguished men who have been invited. It is an opportunity of which the most should be made.

THEIR FACES IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION
Breaking for the first time his silence since he left the White house, former President Wilson declared to a body of men and women who visited him at his home in Washington: "There can be no doubt as to the vitality of the League of Nations. It will take care of itself. Those who don't regard it will have to look out for themselves. I have no anxiety for it. My only anxiety is to see our great people turn their faces in the right direction and move with all their force."
The supreme effort of a political conspiracy to kill the League of Nations, carried on for more than two years and culminating in a full year of determined effort to wreck the League by definitely withholding American participation, has not only failed of its purpose, but has emphasized, as Mr. Wilson points out, the vitality of this great organization in behalf of world peace. The League is now composed of fifty-two nations and the various sessions of its council and assembly have left a clear impression of its practicability, as well as an earnest desire to promote amicable relations between nations, to settle post-war problems justly and constructively and to minimize the possibilities and causes of war.
Mr. Harding's promised association of nations has not materialized. The nearest approach to it is an alliance with Great Britain, Japan and France, a wholly desirable arrangement, but nevertheless a more definite departure from Washington's much misunderstood policy of non-entanglement than the League of Nations can possibly lead to. In no sense can this quadruple alliance take the place of the League of Nations or a substitute association of nations. In many ways, however, it is a justification for the League of Nations and goes to prove its necessity and its great opportunity for promoting the peace and happiness of humanity.

Of one thing we may be sure, the principle underlying the League, the principle to which Mr. Wilson gave definite, if imperfect, expression in creating it, will not die. All the politicians of America cannot kill it. It is a goal so high, a purpose so elevating and so beneficial to humanity, that its realization will be irresistible. The longer the League lives, the more it demonstrates its usefulness, the less must be the fantastic objection of politics to it. How long Mr. Harding and his advisors can keep the United States out of the League without bringing into being a satisfactory substitute that displaces it remains to be seen, but the probability is that it will not be long. Mr. Wilson may indeed have no anxiety for the League. It is absolutely certain to survive in fact if not in form. The American people will turn their faces in the right direction and move with compelling force.

PROTECTING THE ROADS
While the classification of Outagamie highways restricting their use by motor vehicles is in compliance with a state law, nevertheless interpretation and application of the act is an important matter and the county road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors has discharged its duty in this respect in an entirely satisfactory manner. The committee authorizes the use of the maximum loads, that is twelve tons, on concrete, or hard surfaced, roads. On roads constructed of macadam and gravel the loads are limited to seven tons. The classification is the main thing, and that has been made in a way to protect our growing investment in improved highways and to carry out the letter and spirit of the law.
The law limiting the use of improved highways by motor cars will be of great value in promoting good roads and in prolonging the life of those we have. It was a necessity imposed not only by the fact that motor vehicles, when not under regulation, are serious abusers and destroyers of roads, but by the further need of conserving the large sums of money we are putting into our roads each year. With reasonable regulation of speed on those highways where speed is possible we shall have excellent protection of our roads and derive from them the maximum benefits to the public at large.

CONDEMNING ITSELF
The resolution seating Senator Newberry states that "the expenditure of such excessive sums, in behalf of a candidate, either with or without his knowledge or consent, (is) contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the senate, and dangerous to the perpetuity of free government."
If what the senate says is true, then it follows that the senate has made itself a party to an act which is contrary to sound public policy, harmful to its honor and dignity and "dangerous to the perpetuity of free government." In other words, the senate asserts that the circumstances in connection with Mr. Newberry's election are wrong and vicious, and then proceeds to carry out the exact injury to representative government which it says these circumstances invite.
We can conceive of no more complete or stultifying compromise with conscience. The senate writes its own verdict of guilt, denounces its own course, in the resolution, and sets up the very precedent it condemns as ignoble. All the criticism of its action throughout the country does not equal its own confession.

Thirty Recipes
Collier's Weekly says that "those who have made it a study will tell you that the average woman in an American home uses less than thirty separate recipes" though two and one-half cook books have been sold for every home in America. How many housewives will admit that is the truth? Or will be pleased by Collier's comment: "We know that women work hard. They are earnest, but not enough of them know what they ought to do and how to do it." And do men really demand any more than thirty recipes on their plates?
Ask any man what he'd like for dinner and he'd probably say: "Give me a good tender steak, with fine white mashed potatoes, a good cup of coffee and a big piece of apple pie, better than mother used to make—and that'll be about enough for me." The man who eats in restaurants looks over the menu every day and orders about the same things. He fears to venture, or doesn't care to do so. The odds would be even on a bet that he, faced daily by a multitude of recipes, doesn't use more than thirty in all. And the dietitian would probably say that thirty recipes is enough for any housewife, if they are the right sort of recipe, properly balanced, properly cooked, properly served.
A man of good recipes means more simplicity and more health. The poor, it may be observed, have fewer recipes than the rich who hire other help to complicate their diets for them. But the doctors say that there is much more nourishment among the children of the rich than among the children of the poor. That is the modern, articulate way men have invented for starving to death by a lot of gold. Fifty thousand recipes wouldn't prevent that.—SAN FRANCISCO CALL (Ind.)

FIRST AID THAT DOESN'T AID
It was quite a while ago, and popular knowledge of first aid has increased considerably since, but I shall never forget a painful instance of first aid I encountered one summer night in 1909. A lad enjoying a plunge in the old swimming hole slipped on the wet spring board and fractured a bone near his ankle. When I arrived he lay on the bank in agony, and a valiant first aid enthusiast who had applied a makeshift about the ankle, gave a fresh twist upon the stick each time the lad yelled, or rather the lad hollered each time the first aider tightened pressure. Just why the well meaning bystander resorted to this torture was unexplained, but he probably had a confused notion that something heroic should be done. Altho the fracture laid the boy up for a few weeks, he didn't mind that, but somehow he has never forgotten the suffering he experienced from first aid.
I tried to instruct some first aid classes on one or two occasions, but try as I might, the victims were determined to wrest from me the secrets of "doctoring" rather than acquire elementary knowledge of how to protect an injured person from several perils, including first aid. Some day when I run out of ideas I'm going to write a book entitled, "Psychology After Porty"—in one complete paragraph like this:
"There isn't any."
Septicemia, as the doctors prefer to call acute blood poisoning, is more frequently caused by untelligent handling of otherwise minor wounds or injuries than by any other cause. And by untelligent handling I mean any handling, any touching of the wound or injury by any one other than a doctor or a trained nurse. No practical or volunteer nurse is competent to touch a hand, a foot, a leg, or a layman ever should touch or handle his own or another's wound. There can be no excuse for touching or handling a wound except in an aseptic manner, which means, not under antiseptic or antiodical conditions, but without the introduction of bacteria at all. Only a doctor or trained nurse has a practical understanding of asepsis. To imagine that the application of any chemical or physical protection in the first aid management of minor wounds or injuries is courting disaster.
As a rule, with important exceptions, a minor wound which bleeds or is immediately becomes aseptic—free from germs—by reason of the germicidal effect of the blood fluid. To keep the wound aseptic is an object which the skill of physician or nurse attains. To destroy germs which have gained entrance to the wound is another object which no known antiseptic dressing or application will attain. It is doubtful indeed whether the application of antiseptics in first aid does as much good as harm, in popular practice. (The Carrel-Dakin surgical disinfection of wounds is another matter). One immediate swabbing of the wound with tincture of iodine is all the antiseptic treatment that can be justified in first aid.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Refining the Staff
Owing to the fact that our refined diet is lacking in lime salts it has been proposed by competent physiologists that powdered lime carbonate (prepared chalk, or powdered egg shell) be mixed with the salt in the salt cellars, half and half. Another suggestion comes from the operator of a lime plant in Odago, who communicates a good idea. It is this: "When cows have usually once a week, we put a teaspoonful of hydrated lime into the dough. This keeps the bread much sweeter and seems to make it lighter. The bread does not dry out as does bread that has no lime in it."
As a matter of fact our white flour contains but little lime. Therefore I pass this suggestion on to housewives and urge them to try it out at next baking. Hydrated lime is another name for slaked lime.

Vision in Infancy
Is it demonstrable whether a young infant has conscious sight? Can an infant have a belief that it is blind, and be to all intents blind, yet acquire from a stronger mind an opposite belief and so recover vision?—(J. S. T.)
Answer—A careful observer can tell whether an infant sees, very early in infancy, by the infant's response to visual stimuli. But an infant does not learn to focus sight or to control it until he is about three months old, the his eyes may follow a moving object as early as the second week.
Those Cold Gradations
You speak of a temperature of from 64 to 68 degrees F. as the hygienic temperature for the household. Do you consider 68 warm enough for a person aged 80 years?—(Mrs. S.)
Answer—Yes, but I am not 80. However, even at 80 body warmth is not determined by external air temperature. It is determined by the rate of oxidation or metabolism in the body, and that is rather increased at 65 and slowed at 75 degrees F. Let the old folks dress more warmly.

Daily Editorial Digest
(Title Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion
The Daily Ratifies
An observation by the MANCHESTER UNION (Ind. Rep.) that "the last English speaking people held in subjection becomes a free people" emphasizes the words of the NEW YORK (Dem.) when it says: "What ever wild words may be uttered threatening further strife, the world today will chiefly and rightly contemplate the great advance which Saturday, Jan. 7, 1922, marked in national and international relations. It is a red letter date in history that we greet."
Narrow as the margin of votes for ratification was, there seems no doubt in editorial minds that it represented a vastly wider popular approval. "This almost equal division of opinion is confined to the Daily Eireann," remarks the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER (Ind. Dem.), and the NEW YORK CALL (Soc.) agrees that "there can be no doubt that a majority of the Irish people favored the action taken by the Daily Eireann. A long adjournment after a long debate enabled the members of the Irish Parliament to get in touch with their constituents, and statements made by members opposed to the agreement indicate that the great majority of the Irish people are in favor of putting the agreement into force." "This greater and more powerful ratification is a certainty," the NORFOLK REGINIA PILOT (Ind. Dem.) believes, and thinks "it will come when the people of Sinn Fein Ireland are given the opportunity of electing a new body of representatives with the treaty as the determining issue." The NEW HAVEN JOURNAL-COURIER (Ind.) believes "the agreement finally reached appealed to the dispassionate friends of Irish freedom the world over."
"The insistence of President de Valera upon a republican form of government" is characterized by the PHILADELPHIA RECORD (Dem.) as "curiously like the attitude of Mazzini in the making of modern Italy," who was "always and consistently for a republic" but argues that as Italy has "grown great as a kingdom" so the "Irish Free State is assured of a glorious future." The BROOKLYN EAGLE (Ind. Dem.) does not "for a moment believe that the Irish people will reject the substance of freedom for the shadow of independence to which De Valera and his associates have bound themselves." That De Valera "possesses statesmanlike qualities cannot be denied," but he has played "a losing and lost," says the FLORIDA MIAMI (Dem.), adding that "retirement is the only sportsmanlike move for him." "He had much reason on his side, and his stand was appreciated as an honest one by his adversaries," in the opinion of the WASHINGTON POST (Ind.), "the WASHTON POST sees him as 'carrying out the ideal of party government by setting up an opposition to those entrusted with the task of administering public affairs. A man of dogged determination and inflexible will." It is likely that he will yet go far." "The opposition was undoubtedly sincere but it was wrong," in the opinion of the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS (Ind.), since, as the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION (Ind.) insists.
"The treaty, in practice, whatever may be the case in theory, does give the Irish people the right to order their own lives in their own way. They have the unqualified right to make their own laws. They need never send a soldier to war except by vote of their own parliament. They need never pay a penny of taxes unless those taxes have been voted by their own representatives."
"To fight on for their conception of republicanism will bring the De Valera faction into collision with the primary essential of successful republicanism," says the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT (Rep.), and noting that one of their causes of dissatisfaction is the status of Ulster in the treaty, inquires: "May not the residents of Ulster, seeing those who resist the rule of reason at Dublin, gain a more accurate appreciation as to how their attitude looks to the disinterested?"
"The method of negotiation in arriving at peace is extolled by the NEW YORK HERALD (Ind.), which says that 'ever since the problem which presented seemingly unsurmountable difficulties it was that which existed in the British Isles,' and the CHICAGO POST (Ind.) views 'the manner of reaching the agreement' as 'encouraging as the fact itself.'"
The NEWARK NEWS (Ind.) calls the contest "only another illustration of the way political bodies in labor and or seek to register the shortest step in progress. There is always a group of obstructionists—reactionaries or extremists—to stem political advancement." "Let it be remembered in passing judgment on the Irish treaty that the ideal is seldom if ever attained" and that "compromises are always made in the stepping stone."
And the SCOTTSBURGH TIMES (Dem.) notes the "utterance which would have been made in the heat of a spirited debate" and asks "where would you read truer philosophy" than in "the proceedings of the Daily Eireann in connection with the British dominion treaty."
"That the task of organization will be in due contrast to the high adventure of attaining freedom is dwelt upon by the DERBY JOURNAL (Rep.) "We suspect that great many Irishmen will shortly feel lost. They may even regret the days when they could at least listen to oratory without being put to sleep. Boredom is sometimes one of the costs of rebellion which turns out successfully." The OMAHA NEWS (Ind.) observes that "having ruled every other country under the sun, they will meet the supreme test in ruling themselves." As for the effects of the peace in the United States, the NEW YORK TRIBUNE (Rep.) thinks that "we now have an additional right to expect the end here of Irish-Americanism—with its accent on the first word of the hyphenism," and the SALT LAKE TRIBUNE (Ind.) predicts "great rejoicing among the friends of Ireland, as well as those of Irish descent."

Is French Suspicion Justified?
Berlin.—H. von Gerlach, writing in WELT AM MONTAG, sees some justice in the French suspicions of Germany:
"There were again violent attacks against Germany in the recent debates of the French Chamber," he says. "The accusations are not by any means so ridiculous as a part of our press would have it believed. It cannot be denied that hidden arms are constantly being found in Germany, and it is particularly regrettable that these arms should be found so often in buildings set apart for the Reichswehr. Moreover it is a real scandal to see that the instigators of these acts, which are so harmful to the country, have not yet received the punishment deserved. What has become of the active officers of the Reichswehr who had hidden thousands of guns in a cellar at Goritz? What punishment have those men received who hid 343 cannon at Heidenau? Have those been punished who hid arms at Potsdam?"
Unfortunately it would seem that there are authorities among us who have no interest in punishing such deeds. Herr Wirth is certainly not of the number, but his wise policy is not determined by such dealings. Ought not those who are suspected of 'benevolent neutrality' with regard to these acts to be prosecuted?"
"So much for Germany. But the French must be warned that they are going the wrong way about things. I do not deny all the facts which make them nervous, but I do deny that they have any real reason for their nervousness. Those men who hide in that way must be made to imagine that they could make war against a serious enemy with a small number of rusty arms. Even if all arms were taken from their hiding-places Germany would never be able to make them nervous, but I do deny that they are still too much of the military spirit in France, but the way to disarm militarism is by pacifism, not by militarism. Distrust can only be disarmed by confidence."

Swiss Officialdom's Enemy
Geneva.—An interesting historical sketch of Mr. Robert Haab, the newly elected President of Switzerland, has recently been written by the correspondent of the LONDON NEWS. A railroad man, as well as a common, every-day Swiss citizen, the new President is being hailed as inaugurating a new era of prosperity and democracy.
"Switzerland has just elected as its president plain Mr. Robert Haab, a native of Wädenswil, the largest village on the shores of the Lake of Zurich," says the writer. "A man of 56 years of age, tall and spare, and of animated manner, his public life has been largely concerned with railway administration. By profession a lawyer, he became a member of the Board of the South-East Railway Company. He studied closely technical questions, and later on, after experience in local administrative work, was called to preside over the legal department of the Federal Railways. With this experience behind him, it was natural that on his entering the Federal Government in 1917, after a brief period as Swiss Minister at Berlin, he should be called to take charge of the Department of Posts and Railways, and it is understood that, as president of the Confederation, he will still hold the control of this department."

"It is probably fortunate for the Swiss Administration that the President for 1922 controls and keeps the thoroughness of mind and spirit, and reforms are needed, and who has shown already his preparedness to carry them out. Only the other day, the Swiss Minister of Finance, M. Musy, in introducing his budget, made use of the expression that Switzerland was crushed under the weight of bureaucracy," and quoted a press saw that the federal administration numbered thirty-three thousand employees, and the federal railways thirty-nine thousand, while temporary offices occupied another thousand. In a country of 2,800,000 inhabitants this means that one person in fifty-six is employed by the federation, to say nothing of the separate cantons and communes.
The President has vowed on bureaucracy, and has prepared a scheme for a drastic reorganization of the railway administration which does honor to his courage in attacking not only the higher officials, but also the council of administration composed of fifty-five members, principally Members of Parliament or influential State Councilors.
"Not only the Swiss public, but the many numbers of foreigners who are invited to spend their holidays in Switzerland, will be thankful to Mr. Haab if he is able to carry through his reforms and if they result in a reduction of the high cost of travel in this 'playground of Europe.'"

Testing Results
(This sermon, based on the text, "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it," was preached recently by the Rev. A. L. McMillan, pastor of First Baptist church.)
Results are the things that tell us whether we have succeeded or failed, whether there has been concord or discord, whether there is incompatibility on our part with God, in building the Kingdom of God more securely here on earth. If we fail to test the spiritual structure which we have built during the day, we cannot tell how well we have builded nor how badly we have failed. The hour spaces on the clock's dial, tell us how far we have traveled from infancy, and how near we are to the confine of the grave. By this method we are able to test results.
LASTING MATERIAL.
To build a great spiritual structure, all material must grade No. 1. Now, to get such material, we must deal with one firm only, "Father, Son and Holy Spirit." This firm has no competition in so far as keeping the best materials. We read that Elijah, with stones, "built an altar unto the Lord," such material as stone we count trustworthy and dependable but, when the sun's heat, the winter's cold blasts, the water that falls from the clouds hanging in God's azure blue, destroys the stone regardless of its seemingly indestructible composition, so the stone building is not without limitation. We must daily test the results of our spiritual building, that the foundation may be ready for the new day and the resurrection of spiritual work for tomorrow.
IS LIFE SPANNING SPACE OR FILLING SPACE?
Do we hope to fill the life that will span the year 1922 or fill the year? A life that only spans the year leaves the world no better for its having lived one year more. The life that fills the year, has responded to God's call and golden moments have become opportunities, and possibilities become actualities. To reap a harvest there must be seed sowing. If the springtime passes without seed-sowing then time is not considered until necessity arises then we discover that time has become an enemy instead of a friend. When we test results we find we have only "spanned" the year and have done nothing for God, or human society.
EMPTY LIFE.
It is easier to empty one's life than to fill it, one can empty his life by filling his hands. Material blessings may come in such large measure that the name of God will be buried under stocks and bonds. One can empty his life by having idle hands, or an idle mind. One may have his salary increased until God becomes a pigmy in stature, mind and spirit. Let me tell you by way of illustration of the silvery-haired mother, one of God's noble women, who came into my study and told me of her daughter Marion, who was at that time employed in a distant city by a large banking firm. His daughter held a very high and honorable position. The mother handed me a letter and said "read this paragraph," this is what I read, "Mother, the firm has increased my salary $25.00 per month, this means $2.50 more for God per month" (she is a tither). The increase in salary did not empty her life, it filled it. She could have bought an extra $25.00 hat or necklace, but God, received first honors. Test the above result and you will agree that it will meet the approval of God, and in like manner, we must all build or we labor in vain.
THE FRUITFUL LIFE.
I have in mind a certain apple tree in a large southern orchard, its trunk was big, fine and strong. I stood by it and gloried in its strength. A few weeks later I stood by the same tree and beheld its wonderful foliage, charming, captivating, and I said the business, fitness and strongness of the trunk is swallowed up in its matchless foliage. A little later I stood under the same tree and beheld its bloom, a description of it escapes the

Music Memory Contest NO. 5

EDWARD H. GRIEG
Norwegian Composer of Late Nineteenth Century

Edward Hagerup Grieg (1843-1907) was the most representative Norwegian composer. His music was always national and full of a new and strange charm. Grieg was especially successful in the smaller forms of instrumental composition, and in his many songs.

His greatest orchestral compositions are the "Peer Gynt" music, and the concerto for piano. He also wrote three violin and piano sonatas, and several large compositions for chorus and orchestra, of which "Olav Trygvason" is the most famous.

Although Grieg reflects the modern spirit in his music, the national flavor of the Norwegian folk song is ever apparent.

ANITA'S DANCE "PEER GYNT"
This is the third number of the "Peer Gynt Suite." After many adventures, Peer Gynt becomes a wealthy merchant of Morocco. Atired in gorgeous robes and jewels and riding a white horse triumphantly through the desert, he proclaims himself a mighty prophet. Anita, a charming desert maiden, dances for him so beautifully that he gives her all his jewels and wealth. An example of form.

The photograph record numbers for this selection are:
Columbia—A 6110.
Victor—18942.

PURE GREEN ARROW SOAP

The POSTMAN IS COMING!

with your Gift box of pure Green Arrow Soap from the Palmolive Co. Never before a laundry soap like this containing real Olive Oil!

We take this way of letting you find out right in your own wash-tub how Science has used olive oil to do for the family that washes what olive oil soap does for the manufacturers of fabrics.

They wash with olive oil soap to produce the softness and snowy whiteness that new materials have when you buy them. Such results cannot be obtained with ordinary laundry soap that contains much pasty "filler" without cleaning power but merely used to make a little soap look like a full-sized bar.

Green Arrow is ALL soap—pure soap—and thus goes nearly twice as far. It is full of cleaning power and yet so mild that it does not redden, roughen or burn the hands of the woman who washes.

She will demand it—and so will economy—ever after this trial. For sale by all grocers.

BOY BREAKS THRU THIN ICE ON RIVER

Youth Disregards Warning and Has Narrow Escape from Drowning

Kaukauna—Quick action on the part of a number of older boys here saved the life of Harold Renn, 10, who broke through the thin ice while skating on the river Sunday afternoon at the point where his father is engaged in cutting his annual supply of ice for the city. The skating rink made by the skaters of the city is just above the ice field. Young Renn, ducking under the ropes placed there to warn skaters of the danger, glided over the surface which had frozen over only a short time before.

Other skaters crawled out on the treacherous ice and attempted to pull the boy out of the water with hockey sticks but they were unable to do so until a rope was secured. The victim of the accident apparently was very little frightened for not a sound came from him and he coolly hung to the ice and floundered about in an attempt to swim until he was pulled from the icy water.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about 25c.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with homemade sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup.

Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistent, loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

COMMITTEE IS SPLIT ON PLAN FOR VALUATION

Manufacturer Indorses American Plan—Two Other Members Oppose It

A committee of three appointed by directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce to investigate the question of tariff revision and American valuation reported Saturday unanimously in favor of immediate revision of the tariff and two to three in opposition to the American valuation plan. Francis M. Inger, F. J. Harwood and Joseph D. Steele constituted the committee. Its report shows that the committee is in favor of changing the tariff to suit economic conditions and the appointment of a tariff adjustment board to administer adjustable rates. The committee is also in favor of reasonable protection for American industries which are already organized to serve any considerable section of the country or which may be organized for that purpose. It is unanimously in favor of enforcing the anti-dumping legislation of May, 1921, to keep foreign goods from flooding American markets.

In regard to the matter of American valuation as a basis for the duty on imports the committee made the following report:

"Mr. Inger maintains, with respect to question seven, that the present system of levying ad valorem duty, which has been in practice since the foundation of our government, is the proper system to use even in the emergency; the administration of this tariff is not the making or unmaking of a protection to the manufacturers; the American valuation plan of levying taxes would increase prices generally to the consumer, a condition which he does not deem wise at the present time.

"Mr. Steele, also opposed to the so-called American valuation plan, believes that any fundamental change in our tariff system is inadvisable at this time; the change proposed is wholly experimental, not having been tried out in this nor any other country; that many articles will be made prohibitive in price without a corresponding benefit to American industry; that the restriction upon international commerce will adversely affect the American farmer, now the largest American exporter, who is in no position to withstand further economic hardship.

"Mr. Harwood favors the so-called American valuation plan, believing that it is to the best interests of the manufacturers and to the labor of this country and consequently to a large number of people in the country. He is in line with the Wisconsin Manufacturers association whose endorsement of the Fordney plan was a feature of their recent convention at Milwaukee. American industry has to be protected, Mr. Harwood thinks, against the importation of much of the production of foreign countries made on a cheap labor basis and believes the Fordney plan to be the best and quickest way of getting protection."

Following the committee's report, ballots bearing the eight questions were mailed to members of the local chamber of commerce. The result of the votes of every commercial organization in the country on this question will be compiled at the National Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Jan. 21 and will determine the attitude of the national organization on the tariff question.

TEDIUM BARRED FROM ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING

"Information, inspiration and fun" is the slogan officials of the First Congregational church have adopted for the annual supper and meeting Thursday evening.

Now and then during the business session a musical number will be given to prevent the presentation of reports by stereopticon and the election of officers from becoming tedious. The musical program includes selections by Prof. and Mrs. Carl J. Waterman and by the Cecilia choir. Responses are coming in liberally for the supper, indicating that there will be many seated at each serving period, 5:30, 6:15 and 7 o'clock. Each family is to bring its box lunch with the exception of one hot dish and coffee, which the social committee will provide.

Council Meeting
A regular meeting of the common council will be held in the city hall Wednesday evening at which time the board of public works will report on the Atlantic trunk sewer and Belknap trunk sewer. The bids were opened at the last meeting.

Annual Meeting
The George Walters Brewing Co. will hold its annual meeting Tuesday evening at which new officers will be elected and other business disposed of.

HE DARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Come On, You Expert Pie Makers, Send That Recipe!

Pie week ends at noon on Thursday and every recipe which may be considered in the cookery contest must be in the hands of the contest editor by that time. To bake a pie well is an art to be envied and the few women who have mastered the art should be glad to pass it along to their less experienced sisters. And once you are a master pie artist you are not satisfied with only a few kinds but you constantly want more and more kinds of pie to add to your culinary art. The contest editor is trying to procure them for you, but you must send yours along, too.

Not so many pie recipes have been entered for the pie recipe contest and so yours will stand a better show of winning the $1 prize which the contest editor is offering.

In another column of this paper are printed a dozen or more of the cake recipes which came in during Cake week, which was a big success. It seems a shame that Pie week cannot be an even bigger success and it can if you will only send your favorite pie.

And here is another idea. If you cannot bake pie, but you know someone who does, call her up and urge her to send in her recipe. And here is still another idea. "That pie is good but not as good as Mother used to make." If your husband thinks that his mother's pie is better than yours, have him phone her to send it along to the contest editor. Remember on Thursday at 12 o'clock a new cookery week begins.

CIGARET NOT AS BAD AS ALCOHOL

Bushy Business College Debators Argue Harm Caused by Smoking

Use of alcohol is a greater menace to humanity than the cigarette.

This was proven by a close margin in an informal debate staged by the business efficiency class of Bushy Business college Friday afternoon on the question, "Resolved, that the use of alcohol is more detrimental to humanity than the cigarette."

Principal John Bushy was the judge. The students chose sides, giving each team about 20 contestants.

Defenders of the cigarette said the government prohibited use of alcohol by soldiers during the war but furnished them with cigarettes. Insurance companies barred applicants who were heavy alcohol users but placed little restriction on cigarette smoking. They also argued that crimes caused by alcohol were about a hundred to one as compared to those induced through smoking and that the cigarette smoker does not go home and beat up his wife.

Proponents of the cigarette argued that the use of alcohol is more detrimental to humanity than the cigarette.

INVITE APPLETON TO DAIRY EXHIBIT

Will your organization be among those to celebrate "Wisconsin's 50 years of dairy progress" and plan for 50 more at Madison, Jan. 30 to Feb. 4?

This is the question asked Hugh O. Corbett, secretary of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, in a communication received Sunday from K. L. Hatch of the state college of agriculture. The communication says:

"The week will be devoted to formulating a big program for Wisconsin's dairy production and marketing. State and national leaders will be on hand. Alonzo Taylor of Hoover's staff is coming to point out the menace of tropical fats to American agriculture. Frank Lowden, former governor of Illinois, will outline a plan of livestock development and Secretary Wallace will give a national program for agriculture."

It is also stated that there will be reduced rates on all railroads and asks the local chamber of commerce to send a committee.

PREPARE FOR BIG 1922 SAENGERFEST

A meeting of officers of the Eastern Wisconsin district of Wisconsin Singing societies was held at Sheboygan Sunday which was attended by O. W. Schaefer of Appleton, district president.

It was called for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for the thirtieth annual saengerfest which is to be held at Sheboygan, July 15 and 16. The program is to be made an especially elaborate one in view of the anniversary, and in view of the fact the district was organized at Sheboygan and that the first saengerfest was held in that city.

Prof. Theodore Winkler of Sheboygan, district musical director, has selected the songs for the mass chorus which will be distributed among the singing societies of the district as soon as they arrive.

The STEP on the STAIRS

ISABEL
OSTRANDER

Professor Semyonov, the celebrated chemist whose profound knowledge of toxicology had more than once been placed at the disposal of the authorities in the solution of crime, tugged at his bushy white side whiskers and gazed at Sergeant John Barry from the homicide bureau.

The professor's head with its shock of white hair nodded slowly and his shrewd eyes twinkled. "You tell me that there is no calmness upon the waters? No crime of more importance than the average petty misdemeanor engages the attention of your bureau? Is that why you have honored me to-night with an unexpected but most welcome call, and in your civilian clothes?"

"You've got me, Professor Semyonov," the detective laughed again. "There's no crime wave threatening to break over us that I know of, but a rather curious case has come to our attention at headquarters."

The roll of distant but approaching thunder broke in upon his words. "We are going to have a storm."

The professor rose from his chair and waddling over to the windows pulled down the shades. He moved with astonishing rapidity and vigor. "I do not like to watch it approach; it fills me with a sense of suspense, or foreboding. It is electricity in the air. I suppose you shall tell me all about your case, but first you must see my apartment. My laboratories are quite on the other side of the city, you know, but here on this old square where the aristocracy of forgotten generations lived once upon a time I find absolutely different atmosphere which brings relaxation."

Barry followed his host through a spacious, old-fashioned dressing room and bath to the bedroom at the back. Here, too, the professor paused to pull down the shades and then opening a door at the right displayed a modern kitchenette.

"This house, you perceive, must once have been a family mansion but it has now been made over, an apartment to each floor," Professor Semyonov explained. "A shop of hammered brasses and other atrocities occupies the street level, a young gentleman whom I do not know has but lately arrived on the second floor. His apartment is larger than mine, however, for an extra room is built out over the strip of garden but the extension ends on the floor above his in a studio with a skylight. It is occupied, that third floor, by a woman who paints portraits. Mrs. McGrath tells me."

"The fourth apartment, that directly below mine here, houses a crotchety gentleman with no car for music, he raps on his ceiling when I play on my violin at unreasonable hours."

"Above me in an attic studio lives one of the feminine freaks peculiar to the neighborhood in its declining years, a smoked, thin, wealthlike creature with bobbed hair and a pointed chin. She might be 20 or 40, and it is understood that she writes for the eccentric little magazines which spring up sporadically hereabout. So now, my dear sergeant, you are acquainted with my home and its surroundings. What do you think of it?"

He chuckled as he led the way back to the living room and Barry followed, at a loss what to reply. The professor was known on three continents, his scientific discoveries had made him rich; he might have lived in solitary state in the house of his own or occupied the most expensive bachelor apartment in town. Why had he chosen to hide himself away in such dingy, dreary quarters?

"You seem to be mighty comfortable, Professor Semyonov." The detective spoke as heartily as he could and his host laughed outright.

"That is the point!" he exclaimed. "I saw that you were surprised when you came, but my wants are simple and here, you see, I am just a queer, old foreigner named Semyonov, who minds his business and goes his way in peace; I am not Professor Semyonov, the chemist, to whose laboratories all the world comes. No one knows of my abode except the few like yourself to whom I have given my address and I am undisturbed. But now you must tell me about your case. Is it an affair of poisoning?"

Before sergeant Barry could reply another flash of lightning was seen as a knife thrust swept beneath the edges of the window shades and for an instant dulled the electric lights into an angry orange glow.

Professor Semyonov started, then shrugged.

"That was nearer, eh?" I am as bad perhaps as a hysterical housemaid but does it not seem as though the very atmosphere waited for the breaking of the storm?

"It is like the report of guns," the professor pulled his worn, gorgeously-hued dressing gown more closely about him as he sank once more into his chair. "I have heard there in my own country many years before the late war and the memory of them is with me always. But let us forget the storm if we can. The case you mentioned: is it murder?"

"Frankly, I don't know," Barry responded. "It is similar to that Tudor affair at Sandy Cove last summer."

A sudden, sharp detonation burst crackling upon their ears and both men leaped to their feet and stood for the fraction of a second staring at each other. The professor's nervousness had fallen from him and he spoke with the calmness of fatalism.

"There was no lightning. That was not thunder, but a shot! Come!"

The realization of the truth had pierced the detective's consciousness even before his host voiced it and he sprang for the door. As he flung it open, with the retort figure in the tattered dressing gown close at his heels, he heard unmistakably the sound of hurrying footsteps below and plunged for the head of the stairs.

The narrow hall was but dimly lighted and in the unnatural silence which followed the echo of the shot, their own feet as they clattered down the matting-covered stairs drowned out the lesser sound which had come up to them.

The hallway directly below was deserted and the door leading into the apartment was closed and blank. Professor Semyonov paused to hammer upon it but Barry hastened downward, his eyes striving to pierce the gloom. Was that a flying figure below him or just his own distorted shadow advancing before his reckless descent?

On the third floor he halted. The door of this apartment also, which his host had told him was occupied by a woman portrait painter, was closed, but from the line of sill streamed a peculiar, bright light like a beam of sunshine. The professor ceased his fruitless efforts and rejoined his companion just as there came a soft thud and then from the street level a violent ringing and pounding.

"Someone, we were mistaken," Barry remarked. "It might have been a fracas out in the street."

Barry followed his host through a spacious, old-fashioned dressing room and bath to the bedroom at the back. Here, too, the professor paused to pull down the shades and then opening a door at the right displayed a modern kitchenette.

"This house, you perceive, must once have been a family mansion but it has now been made over, an apartment to each floor," Professor Semyonov explained. SPLENDID BIG WALSH HOME IS OPEN TO FRIENDS

Grandmother Walsh's Exuberance Has Put New Life In to Capital Society

Washington. — A grandmother dancing from sheer joy has put new life into the most exclusive set in Washington. She is Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, and the occasion for her exuberance of spirits is the arrival of the third one-hundred-million-dollar baby to the Edward B. McLeans—this last baby being the first little girl of Mrs. Walsh's only daughter, Evelyn B. McLean.

Every evening from 6 to 7 Grandmother Walsh, with some of her most intimate friends, "trips the light fantastic" in the Walsh home ball room.

Mrs. Walsh, lithe and graceful as a girl, greets every guest with a cordial handshake and a radiant smile. "What a beautiful ballroom!" one involuntarily exclaims. "And to think of its having been closed for 10 years!" "Yes," Mrs. Walsh replies, "I have not opened it since the death of Mr. Walsh until this year."

Violin and piano duet, "Moonlight on Kalam."

Mrs. Walsh starts the fox trot with her partners the dancing master, who has just returned from Paris with the latest steps. The dancing master's wife is also regularly engaged to instruct the gentleman present.

Colonel Horton, who had just had the Distinguished Service Medal conferred on him, drops in. So does Senator Walsh from Montana.

Sentor and Mrs. Capper enjoy an hour's recreation. Several other men, all having come direct from the office in their business suits, and a group of ladies fortunate in being numbered among Mrs. Walsh's intimate friends, enter into the spirit of this informal hour before dinner.

The tango begins. The hostess resigns her partner to a guest, while she moves about, chatting with other onlookers.

For Mrs. Walsh dances only with the dancing master, thereby showing no favoritism.

These informal gatherings of from 50 to 60 intimate friends are varied now and then by dancing parties of from 500 to 600 guests.

The first, on the night following Christmas, was for Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick Dunt, Count of Cantacuzene, the granddaughter of the late General Grant.

LINDSEY'S WIFE AIDS GIRLS

MRS. E. B. LINDSEY

By Alice Rohe
New York. — Enter madame—Young, beautiful, golden hair, big blue eyes, long curling lashes, pink and white complexion, cupid's bow mouth, perfect teeth, a nose that would make even Phidias rave—

Madame speaks and lo—from her lips pour words of wisdom.

"What a perfect woman who combines beauty and brains!" We ask this radiant creature, who is Mrs. E. B. Lindsey, wife of the famous judge of the Denver Juvenile Court—"How come?"

She replies: "Honestly I don't see who started that theory that a woman has to be a fright if she has good sense, or a low-grade moron if she is at all attractive. How can a face be beautiful unless it reflects mentality?"

SHE IS MODEST
"If your fairy grandmother had not given you who girls, which would you have chosen, beauty or brains?" I asked.

"I refuse to be conceded as to even pretend I am either beautiful or brains!" And then Mrs. Lindsey talked about her work.

"When girls come to me with their confidences I know it is because they read understanding in my face."

Of course all of Judge Lindsey's friends know the important part his wife—formerly Henrietta Brevoort of Detroit—has played in his life.

IN CHARGE OF GIRLS
"I am his secretary and I have charge of the girls' work," Mrs. Lindsey explained. "Naturally I try to conserve the judge's strength and time by arranging his appointments. I did study to be an interior decorator—yes—I have decorated the old Lindsey home after converting it into apartments you see, we needed the money."

"The court is my life" And now that the work for boys is a universal fact, the girls' work is important.

"The key to the future seems to me to be in the judge's new method—recognizing three ages in every girl—the biological, psychological and chronological."

"Many a girl who is a court case could have been saved if her parents had recognized these different ages. We have so many cases of girls who are chronologically 14, but who are biologically 20 and psychologically 10."

"These are the girls offered up through ignorance not only as victims but as temptations of society."

LETTERS TO LOVERS

Reconciliation

By Winona Wilcox

HE wronged wife who does not believe in divorce must face the problem of weaving the threads of her life into a brand new design.

The pattern of a life in money which she understood when she was a bride did not endure. Surely it is unwise to imitate it. Some great change in home-making must be planned by confused wives who write letters like the following:

"My husband deserted me for a younger woman, leaving me the support of our child to me for a year. Now I wish to reestablish our home and as I do not believe in divorce, I have accepted his proposal."

"I think I have forgiven him but can I ever forget?"

"He needs me, he says, and for the sake of our child, I think I ought to help the father to reform and settle down to a dignified manner of life."

The young wife says she has forgiven but older matrons will fancy that she deceives herself. She may conduct herself as if she had forgiven but her quick jealousy, constant suspicion and lack of confidence in the man will convince him, at least, that he has expected too much from the woman he has injured.

It is best for the wife to understand how great are the difficulties before her. It is well for the errant husband to remind himself that the wife has an emotional nature of her own, and that her moods and temper, called out at intervals by the memory of his disloyalty, are not altogether within her control.

He cheated. He must pay. The scorned wife will try to forgive but in her heart she will usually be hoping to make him pay.

The above writer says that her husband needs her. Of course he does but why should his need be a reason for self-sacrifice on her part?

He owes the injured wife everything and she owes him nothing. His conduct has set the wife free to shape the new life with him very much as she prefers it to be.

At the time of the reconciliation, the wife usually possesses a good deal of power over her husband. Not humble, for his recent triumphs in love not contributed to his humility, but his separation from wife and child, and his longing for a settled and comfortable home have made him prudent.

Certainly no wife can have a nobler work than that of regenerating the father of her children. But if the wronged wife expects her influence to last it is wise for her to begin to use it at the time of reconciliation.

Being at the moment down and out, the husband will make marvelous resolves about his future behavior. It is at this period of his acute need that the wise wife will cease from troubling his harried soul and wait proved to reform him by using the methods the trespassers found effective.

100 WOMEN WORK IN DOLL DRESS SHOP

Woman Has Built up Fortune Making Dresses for Dolls

Chicago. — When a business woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—doll clothes!

What then? Fortune and success—in the case of Mrs. Katherine A. Rausser, head of a $100,000 corporation.

EMPLOYS 100 WOMEN
Sixteen years ago she was a clerk in a department store. Today the business which she conceived out of the air castles of her dreams—an industry devoted to the manufacture of detachable doll clothing—brings in a handsome income and gives employment to 100 other women.

Mrs. Rausser's factory is really a dressmaking establishment of the highest order, where doll costumes receive as much attention as do those for women of the most particular dress taste.

She started operations with one sewing machine. At that time there were no dolls in the market with removable clothing. It was a slow process to educate the world to accept artistic and expensive creations in doll raiment. But time and patience turned the trick.

NEW STYLES EACH YEAR
Each year, now, brings a new style in doll clothing. Everything from ballroom frocks to bathing suits. The Rausser factory covers 10,000 square feet of space and has elaborate show rooms. Orders come from all corners of the globe.

Mrs. Rausser says it is all the result of her dreams.

"This is the age of feminine achievement," she says. "Women are coming into their own at last. They have capacities for success never before realized."

"As creators women have the advantage over men. It is their business to create. The coming generation will show what women can do when this faculty is given a chance to assert itself in the business world."

INK SPOTS
Lemon juice will remove ink spots if applied immediately. Squeeze the lemon juice on the spot and then pour boiling water over it.

A NEW TUNIC

By Mary Brooks Picken

Once upon the time, oh, ever so many days ago, it was a modiste's pride to turn out a frock whose hem line ran exactly parallel with the floor. Ask this same modiste today to follow this plan in making your gowns. What an amazed and disturbed response you will receive—"My dear madam, surely you won't mar the beauty of your costume with an irregular hem, not simply because it is the thing, but principally because it is so truly artistic and beautiful."

An irregular hem line is achieved in this kolinsky trimmed model of Formosa Colored Canton crepe by means of pointed front and back tunic sections. But the irregular hem is most assuredly not the only interesting feature of the costume.

Cereal Dishes

LET F T over cereal may always be used up in a made dish if a large amount is left. It may be molded and sliced and fried for lunch or a smaller amount can be used in a pudding.

A cereal pudding has much food value and should follow a light meal. Learn to let the dessert count as so many necessary calories of food rather than just so much more that would not be eaten if it were not sweet and specially attractive.

CEREAL LUNCHEON LOAF
One and one half cups hominy grits, ¾ cup finely chopped peanuts, ½ cup coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced celery, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat egg, add bread crumbs, catsup and onion and salt. Reheat and when very hot stir in the first mixture. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake half an hour in a hot oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

WHEAT PUDDING
Use any left over wheat cereal although the more slightly parched brands make a more delicate pudding.

Three-fourths cup left over boiled cereal, 1½ cups milk, 1 egg, 1 dessertspoon melted butter, 2 cup sugar, ¼ tea spoon cinnamon, ½ tea spoon vanilla, 1 tea spoon lemon juice.

Accepts Cut Of Money To Help His Baby

Buzzards Bay, Mass.—Baby hands. They've swayed the idealistic determination of Charles Garland, who several months ago refused a $1,000,000 legacy from his father, James A. Garland, on the ground he was not entitled to money he did not earn.

Now Garlands has revised his decision. And all because a baby daughter has been born to his wife in a Boston hospital.

Garland will take the legacy—but not for himself. One-third of it will settle on his wife and baby, though he and his wife have separated.

TAKES ONLY $350
Five hundred dollars he'll take to spend for needed improvements on the humble farm house he occupies here on the land he tills with his own hands.

The rest he'll distribute among 10 friends. They'll spend to do good, he's convinced.

When Charles Garland refused his share of the estate his brother, Hamilton, a Harvard student, announced he would likewise refuse his share when he became of age.

But now Hamilton, too, is said to have changed his belief and probably will accept the $1,000,000, though he won't tell why.

Charles Garland is 22. He wears the sheepskin coat and other rough working attire of the farmer. He sits at a frugal table.

"Christ would not have consented to become a millionaire," he says "so why should I?"

BRUSEWITZ ATTENDS IMMENSE ROAD SHOW
A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, left Monday to attend the thirteenth National Good Roads show which is being held this week in the Chicago coliseum. It is claimed that this year's show is the largest exhibit of road building machinery ever assembled in one place in America.

Last year's show occupied 40,000 feet of floor space but this 70,000 feet are required. Everything in road building machinery is being shown and expert demonstrators are on hand to show how each piece of equipment is used.

BOWLING ALLEYS IN NEW BUILDING ARE ASSURED
The sale of shares of stock of the bowling club organized by members of Local No. 1 of the Aid Association for Lutherans is such as to insure the success of the organization. In order to delay the expense of building four alleys for private use in the basement of the new Insurance building of the association, the club took it upon itself to dispose of 800 shares of stock at $10 a share, a good portion of which has been sold.

Entertained at Dinner
Miss Clara Reetz entertained 35 friends at dinner Sunday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Herman Selig, 469 Johnson, in honor of her birthday anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. William Reetz of Clintonville, parents of the hostess, were among the out of town guests.

Polly and Paul—and Paris

Chapter 13—Morning Glory

BY ZOE BECKLEY

"Do you know, Polly darling," said Paul, that this ery taxicab we're in is a war veteran? It's one of those blessed old rattlers that chugged up to the Marne on that awful September 6th." Polly's mouth opened in awe as she gazed about the old vehicle and up at the fat chauffeur "and maybe this old fellow himself was one of the men who pushed back the Germans at Meaux."

"But here is our hotel, dear."

"Oh, Paul—" squeezing his arm tight. "I love this one. What an adorable little street! And there's the Madeleine—I recognize it from the pictures I've been brought up on all my life. What splendid pillars! And—look, Paul—there's the stone saint that had his poor head blown off by big Bertha. Oh, what a sweet little hotel!"

Next morning the gay spring sunshine striking across her face woke Polly early. She kissed Paul's eyes.

"Come, blessed old boy, don't sleep another minute! I give you quarter of an hour to dress and get down to breakfast. I can't wait! If you don't hurry I'll jump out of the window and mess up that sweet little cobbled stone courtyard!"

"We don't go down to breakfast, Madame Ignorance. Breakfast comes up to us—rolls and coffee. That's all you get!"

The neat maid brought it on a tray and Polly alternated her nibbles of crisp roll and mouthfuls of coffee and hot milk with seals of delight.

"We don't want to meet a soul," murmured Polly. "It would spoil everything."

The words had scarcely passed her lips when the smart, self-assured figure of Viola Rand, chin in air swung along. Would she pass with out seeing them? Polly played so.

"But no such luck. She saw, she came. Paul rose with welcoming smile. And across Polly's sun swept a little gray cloud.

an impatient urgings of Paul to hurry.

In the street was a fresh smell of morning. Cafes were being swept and garnished, baker's boys trudged along with baskets of yardlong brown loaves, a shop at the corner was a blaze of oranges, carrots and luscious lettuce and then suddenly upon Polly's eyes burst the glory of the flower market about the Madeleine. She was on tiptoe with joy. Lusty peasant women in fat skirts smiled at the couple.

"Ah—ah—les violettes pour Mignonne! Fifty centimes la boîte! Sweet—sweet!" And Paul bought "Mignon" a bunch and pinned them on her jacket.

"Let's sit here," said Paul as they came to the Café de la Paix. "They say," he went on, choosing a table well to the front where passers-by almost grazed their toes, "that if you sit here an hour you'll meet every body you ever knew!"

"I don't want to meet a soul," murmured Polly. "It would spoil everything."

The words had scarcely passed her lips when the smart, self-assured figure of Viola Rand, chin in air swung along. Would she pass with out seeing them? Polly played so.

"But no such luck. She saw, she came. Paul rose with welcoming smile. And across Polly's sun swept a little gray cloud.

Lady Overcomes Use of Morphine

"Troubled about 10 years with what the doctors called gall stones, often I thought I would die before the doctor could get here when he would give me a hypodermic of morphine and advise an operation. A neighbor told me about May's Wonderful Remedy for stomach trouble, and since taking the first dose 2 years ago I have not had an attack nor needed a hypodermic. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the gall stones from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

HISTORY PROVES HILL HAS CHANCE TO WHIP CHAMP

Local Man's Advantage in Age
May Be Deciding Factor in Big Bout

Motion pictures probably will be taken of the wrestling match between George Hill, center of the world, and Stanislaus Zbyszko, champion in Armory G next Monday night. Arrangements for the pictures now are being made. A big motion picture company has declared that the entire midwest is interested in the match and believes that the pictures will draw very well all over this section.

Fans who can't figure how Hill has a chance with the big Pole should not forget that other champions have been downed by dark horses. Stecher lost to Lewis when the latter was hardly considered a world beater. Gotch wasn't given a "look in" when he faced Hackenschmidt and surely no one figured Beel as championship timber when he defeated Gotch. Zbyszko is getting along in years and it is not impossible that Hill's advantage in age may be sufficient to give him the victory.

Zbyszko now is wrestling in the west and it is probable he will come here from Colorado Springs, Col. He has been working steadily for weeks and is in perfect condition. There is little chance that Hill will catch the champion off his guard as so many other champions have been caught. Hill is saying little but working mighty hard. He has found a few more wrestling partners who are giving him plenty of action and he is spending hours on the road to increase his endurance. He is becoming stronger with each battle.

The advance seat sale indicates a record breaking house. This will be the first appearance of a champion in Appleton and fans will not pass up this opportunity of seeing the big fellow in action.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Sport writers all over the state are making considerable fuss over the action of Dr. Samuel Plantz in advising three Lawrence men that they must either quit playing professional basketball or leave school. These writers think that the Lawrence president has overstepped his authority in this matter. The fact is that every college has a right to determine the qualifications of its students and if Lawrence objects to its students playing professional ball that is its business. Dr. Plantz' attitude, when it is correctly understood, is sound. He maintains that the school has no jurisdiction over its students when they play with noncollege teams and therefore the reputation of the school is endangered because it cannot control the actions of men who are advertised as Lawrence students. Dr. Plantz also took the action as a means of saving the amateur game as it is played by colleges and he deserves commendation rather than censure for his attitude.

So Clark Griffith up and did the unexpected thing after all. Clyde Milan has been appointed manager of Washington and the much heralded Roger Peckinpaugh left out in the cold. Milan ran the Senators last season after Eddie McBride got hurt and he had good luck, the club winning nearly all its games. Peck has announced that he is tickled to death at not being handed the reins but we have got a hunch that the selection of Milan is not settling any too well on the former Yankee infielder.

Ritchie Mitchell is going to attempt to stage a come back. The Milwaukee lightweight has been in action in the ring since he broke his arm fighting Fred Goetz last fall. Mitchell has put on a lot of weight during his idleness but now is hard at his weight reducing stunts and expects to soon be under 140 pound limit. It is rumored that Ritchie is after a bout with Benny Leonard. Ritchie better watch his step and open up easy.

Louhring of Nebraska has been signed by Minnesota to act as director in chief of athletics. The job pays $7,000 per year but it is probably worth every cent of that because for the next two years it is going to be a tough road. Louhring will be the chief in all branches of sport. Louhring has been an important figure in the Cornhuskers rise to fame in the athletic world.

Hagen In Center Of Golf Stage

By Billy Evans

In any sport it is the fellow with color who is always the popular favorite.

Georges Carpentier won a legion of friends before his bout with Jack Dempsey because he had color. Carpentier was different. He didn't look the part of the ordinary pugilist, neither did he act it.

The Frenchman was an actor. He looked more like the typical college athlete, and lived the part. No boxer ever received more publicity for things that had nothing to do with the fist game than Carpentier.

Carpentier entered the ring with Dempsey, the idol of thousands of Americans, many of whom had never seen a m. They liked his looks, the things he said and the way he acted.

After the fight he remained an idol even in defeat. He lost to Dempsey giving the best he had. He was game. Sportsman like color and gameness in their idol. Carpentier had both.

Babe Ruth is the idol of balldom because he has color, because he can do things with a basketball ball no other man can do. Ruth lacks the finesse of Carpentier. He is a different type but none the less popular.

In golfdom Walter Hagen is the outstanding celebrity. He has color. Walter Hagen is a champion and he always looks the part. He is the type of fellow you see in the pictures but rarely lamp on the links.

Hagen is the Beau Brummel of golfers, amateurs or professional. When he steps on the course you can rest assured that his makeup is the very last word in the fashions of the golf world.

It is something to look the part of a real golfer. It is even more important to play the part as well as look it. That is Walter Hagen. He is the most feared player in golfing circles.

Hagen, after being apparently distanced, has come from behind and won more big tournaments than any other golfer in the country.

During an important match, a query that is being constantly asked by every other player in the event is: "What is Hagen's score?"

Today's Sport Angle

By Billy Evans

From New York comes the report that Babe Ruth is to play first base for the Yankees.

To my way of thinking that is pure "bunk."

In the first place I can see no reason why a change from Wally Pipp should be desired. He is a first baseman of major league caliber.

For years he has been replacing Wally Pipp, at first. Each spring, however, finds him back on the job as the regular first baseman.

Pipp is a mighty fine fielder, an excellent target for the rest of the infield to throw at. Pipp has a nice style at the plate, and it always has been surprising to me that he didn't finish with a higher batting average.

Why, then, shift Ruth to first base, when the position is being most acceptably filled by Pipp?

In the second place it is my opinion that shifting Ruth to first would rob him of much of his value to the club.

Ruth is never going to be the Hal Chase type of first baseman. Ruth, always anxious to get results, would perhaps use brute force in making plays at first that would often result in serious injury.

I recall one game in which he played first base in Boston. He really saved the game by blocking first base, and allowing the runner to slide into his leg instead of the bag. He was badly cut as a result and was out for about ten games. It was a very costly experience.

Ruth's place is in the outfield. The big fellow has really developed into a very fine fielder. If he would use some care as to his diet, it would be a very easy matter for him to reduce at least twenty pounds. A loss of that much weight would make him a much improved ball player in all departments.

Two Rivers may lose the noted "Skinny" O'Connor, Milwaukee Bright Star and regular Two Rivers player, if action is taken to bar him from the Central Wisconsin basketball league for an alleged assault on a spectator at a recent game at Neenah.

According to the league president, F. H. Heath, formal complaint probably will be filed with the league board of directors. If O'Connor is officially found guilty of misconduct the result will be debarment from all league contests.

YANKEE BOSS CONFERS WITH JOHNSON AND RUTH

Chicago—Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, conferred here Tuesday with Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and Babe Ruth, who is playing a vaudeville engagement here.

It was thought that Ruppert had come to Chicago Tuesday to confer with Judge Landis on the Ruth decision but he had no information to offer relative to Babe's case.

M'Graw Wants To Win 3 World Series In A Row

John McGraw of the New York Giants seeks new laurels in the managerial world.

No manager has ever won three world series in a row. That is what McGraw is aiming at.

The peppery leader of the Giants is on the way to accomplish that desire. He won a pennant and a world championship in 1921.

McGraw believes that the addition of Groth, and possibly one or two other deals he has in mind, will render the Giants well nigh invincible for a couple of years.

It is said McGraw plans to retire from the active management of the club at the close of the 1923 campaign. He hopes by that time to have made a record that will give the managers of the future something to shoot at.

No major league manager has ever won three championships in a row. Chance has come the closest.

When he ruled the Chicago Cubs,

Chance won three pennants, but only two world championships.

The Chicago Cubs captured the National League pennants in 1906, 1907 and 1908. The White Sox beat Chance's great team in 1906 for the title. The next two years the Cubs defeated the Detroit Tigers without much trouble.

Hughie Jennings when in charge at Detroit won pennants in 1907, 1908 and 1909, but was never able to beat a National League club in the annual classic.

Connie Mack won pennants and world championships in 1910 and 1911 but was unable to make it three in a row, the Boston Red Sox beating his club out in 1912.

With a young ball club, an aggregation of hard hitters, fast fielders and good base runners, McGraw has a great chance. He is a big favorite to repeat in the National League this year.

If there is a runner on first, and the batter hits a home run, and the runner on first fails to touch third on his way to the plate, does that in any way affect the status of the batsman?

The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base, and is declared out for so doing, in no way affects the status of a succeeding runner.

However, if there were two out in such a case, the base runner would not be credited with a home run, since it is impossible to score a run ahead of a runner who is retired for the third out.

ZBYSZKO DEFEATS OLIN, GIANT FINN

Columbus, O.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, heavyweight champion wrestler, threw John Olin, the giant Finn, after 20 minutes of grappling here Monday night. Olin tried the way for his own downfall by lifting Zbyszko from the floor and trying to drop him. Olin lost his balance and came down on the bottom of the heap.

PRO BALL MENACE TO HIGH SCHOOLS

Two High Schools Hit by Ruling Against Paying Basketball Players

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Professional basketball in Wisconsin is menacing both high school and college teams and the new board of the Wisconsin Interscholastic association is leaving nothing undone in an effort to stamp out professionalism as far as high schools are concerned.

Two members of the Stevens Point high school team were barred from high school athletics at a meeting of the board here, it was announced Saturday. They were charged with having taken part in a professional tournament at Fond du Lac last spring as members of a Wisconsin National guard five.

Medford high school, was suspended from competition in the W. I. A. A. until Jan. 1, 1923, charged with having used students who had played with a city team, after having been warned not to do so.

of the United States into one great club, regardless of their sport.

Fans have never before been permitted a voice in the world of sport, O'Hara said, and he proposes that they start something for themselves. He has received assurances of support in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Missouri and has come east to spread the idea.

White Beats Dundee
